If a researcher applies for expedited review, it's advisable to wait for feedback from the IRB Office on the submitted study whether it qualifies for this type of review or full board review. In case it qualifies for expedited review, the researcher is expected to receive communication from the IRB Office regarding the status of their submission

WITHIN OR AFTER 2 WEEKS.

Masters and PhD proposals DO NOT qualify for expedited review. However undergraduate students and staff are free to apply for it given the risk exposed to participants in the study.
